

Syllabus for M.A. in Linguistics Entrance Exam

There is no particular syllabus for the entrance examination for the reasons given below:

The M.A entrance test does not presuppose any prior knowledge of Linguistics as we admit people from all streams. The entrance test questions are fairly general in nature, designed to test general aptitude and sensitivity towards language and related issues.

Syllabus for M.Phil./Ph.D. in Linguistics Entrance Exam

There is no particular syllabus for the entrance examination for the reasons given below:

For M.Phil. / Ph.D. we try to cover broad areas of interests such as: General research aptitude, Phonetics-articulatory and acoustic; Phonology, Morphology, Syntax, Semantics-Pragmatics, Sociolinguistics, Historical linguistics, Psycholinguistics and Neurolinguistics. These are the areas currently taught as part of M.A. Program. So we recommend that those aspiring to appear for the Linguistics entrance tests should consult the past entrance tests question papers and M.A syllabus which are available on the Delhi University Website.
