Career Profile
I have been a researcher, writer, teacher and administrator in my almost twenty six years of life as an academe. Beginning my rewarding career at Lady Shri Ram College for Women in 1991, I taught there for 14 years and was in charge of many curricular and extracurricular activities. I was also HOD there for 2 years and also the Staff Advisor for the Dramatics Society for over ten years and helped mount annual plays with the doyens of theatre in India such as Habib Tanvir, Piyush Mishra, Anamika Haksar and NK Sharma among others. I also successfully spearheaded LSR's first forays into international linkages with La Trobe University in Australia and then co wrote and won a two year Fulbright Faculty Exchange Grant with my affiliates in the foremost Liberal Arts Kenyon College in USA. (2001-3). I planned and executed many national and international level conferences and symposia in my 14 years at LSR. I joined the Department of English, Delhi University in 2005 and have been active in syllabi making, curricula design, text book compilation and editing, seminars and conferences and, most importantly, in teaching and supervising student research at all levels. I have also been part of and head of various departmental committees. In 2018, as the Co Convenor of the Post Graduate Curriculum restructuring I have helped to create a robust and international syllabus. I was on deputation as the first Officer on Special Duty (OSD) and then the Founding Dean (Academic Planning) at the international Nalanda University from January 2011 to July 2015. I founded the first two Schools of History and Ecology and Environment Studies and also lead the first two rounds of student enrollment to create an internationally diverse faculty and student body at NU. I also organized two international conferences in Patna and Rajgir to build the academic image of NU. Additionally, I was responsible for forging the first set of international and national level collaborations for NU. On resuming my duties at the English Department I was immediately given the Teacher-in-Charge role for the South Campus and have revived the academic activities for the department in that campus through many initiatives while supporting all departmental activities in the North too. There have been conferences, talks and symposia that have been held at the English department South Campus that have greatly enriched the academic life of both the MA students at the aforementioned campus and also helped draw in more faculty from the South Campus colleges to be participative in such academic engagements. In February 2017, I organized a one day event on the history of Batik in collaboration with The Ministry of Education, Indonesia and the Embassy of the Republic of Indonesia, New Delhi. The lecture demonstration involved 19 Indonesian women academics, practioners of Batik and dance performers and was their first interaction with Delhi University. I also co convened an international conference on "The Mahabharata and Inter-Asian Cultures: Transmissions, Adaptations,

Performances and Histories." April 6-8, 2017. The Department of English, Delhi University and supported by The Indira Gandhi Center for the Arts (IGNCA), Ministry of Education and the Indonesian Embassy. New Delhi. I was also the co convenor of the Committee for the First International Conference on Disability Studies organized by the Department of English, Delhi University." Interrogating Disability Studies: Literature, Culture, Performance." March 8 -10, 2018. New Delhi.

Furthermore, I have designed a unique interdisciplinary MPhil course (certainly in Departments of English in India) on inter-Asian networks exploring civilizational dialogues and cultural encounters. I have also functioned both as a Special Invitee of the Academic Council at Nalanda university, the Chancellor's Nominee for faculty hiring and as Advisor, Academic Affairs at the aforementioned university till November 2016. Additionally I have served as an Expert on The Mahabharata in the committee set up by the Indira Gandhi Center of the Arts, New Delhi. I have also been Keynote speaker, Special Invitee, Chair and Expert at several other lectures, talks and symposia in 2017-18.

In June 2016 I was awarded the prestigious Senior Fellowship by the Nalanda Sriwijaya Center at Yusof Ishak Institute, Singapore for a month from June 15th 2016 to July 15th 2016. I was invited to give two Public Lectures at the Institute. My most recent publication is the interdisciplinary work: Records, Recoveries, Remnants and inter-Asian Interactions: Decoding Cultural Heritage. Singapore: The Institute of Southeast Asian Studies- Yusof Ishak Institute. 2018.
