1. Introduction

University of Delhi, established in 1922, is the premier University of the country and is known for its high standards in teaching and research and attracts eminent scholars to its faculty.

Part of University of Delhi, the Department of Operational Research (OR) is the only of its kind in India. Its philosophy in both teaching and research is to combine intellectual rigour with a strong emphasis on practical applications. It has an international reputation for developing both quantitative and qualitative modeling methods. The alumni of the department hold important positions in the best of Indian as well as multinational companies.

Operational Research as a subject was introduced in the University of Delhi in 1963 with the introduction of a two year Post Graduate programme. A decade later the Department of Operational Research was independently set up under the Faculty of Mathematical Sciences. It is the first Department to start a Post Graduate programme of Operational Research in India.

In 1994, the Department also introduced Post Graduate programme in Applied Operational Research (AOR) at South Campus. Besides these courses, the Department also offers M.Phil and Doctorate programmes.

OR is the discipline of applying advanced analytical methods to help make better decisions, by using techniques such as mathematical modeling to analyze complex situations. It gives executives the power to make more effective decisions and build more productive systems.

OR has firmly embedded itself in a wide range of sectors, including manufacturing, transport, retailing, marketing, the financial and service sectors, defense, revenue management, consultancy, supply chain management, engineering etc.. It also addresses a wide variety of issues in communication systems, computer operations, design and networking, inventory planning, manufacturing, distribution and many other topics that aim to improve business productivity.

World over many companies (IBM, AMR Corp. parent company of American Airlines, Proctor & Gamble, Hewlett Packard Corp., Merrill Lynch and Company, Taco Bell Corp., British Airways) are making extensive use of Operational Research techniques and have dedicated OR groups working for them. In India too, many companies like TISCO, Reliance Petrochemicals, JK Tyres, Hindustan Levers Limited, Asian Paints, GE Capital, Inductis, Progeon, Skytech Solutions etc. are applying OR for increasing their productivity gains.

The overall aim of the M.Sc. OR and M.A. /M.Sc AOR programmes is to produce good analysts who will be in high demand from OR groups in business, government and management consulting companies. This means that in addition to acquiring skills in formal techniques of OR, students learn to apply theories and concepts in a creative and practical way. They also develop the intellectual and personal skills needed to work on complex issues in an organization often as a part of team. The programme places heavy emphasis on practical experiences for which extensive interaction with the industry is built into the curriculum. The final year students are required to engage themselves in industry oriented projects as a part of their regular course work. Students spend a lot of time working within an established OR (or related) group, gaining preliminary experience of how analysis is carried out in an organizational setting and submit their findings in the form of a project report for evaluation.

II Courses Offered

M.Sc. Operational Research at University of Delhi, North Campus

M.Sc. Operational Research is a two-year post graduate course. The number of seats in this course is 93 (including all reservations). This course includes a number of techniques of Operational Research: Linear, Nonlinear, Parametric and Network Optimization, Queueing, Inventory, Reliability, Marketing, Quality Control etc.. The curriculum emphasizes on formulation of OR models and algorithms. Students are encouraged to develop skills in setting up and analyzing Operational Research models. The course demonstrates factors and restrictions involved in building and using models for planning and management problems. Case studies, Projects and use of OR software are constituents of the course.

M.A. / M.Sc. Applied Operational Research at University of Delhi, South Campus

M.A. / M.Sc. Applied Operational Research is a two-year post graduate course. The number of seats in this course is 47 (including all reservations). This course was started in the year 1994. The curriculum lays heavy emphasis on experimental and process-oriented learning. The pedagogical tools include the use of case studies and industry oriented project work. Besides building up skills of individual decision making, lot of emphasis is laid on developing team skills and value focused decision making.

M.Phil and Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) Programmes

The Department has strong research interest in different subject areas of OR and offers M.Phil and Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D) programmes aimed at producing quality researchers.

XII. Infrastructure

Library: Students have access to two main libraries, the Central Science Library and Mathematical Sciences Library. Both the libraries have a vast collection of resources on OR including over 50 journals and 10,000 books. The Central Science library also has an Internet Access Center to help students to consult online subject literature.

Seminar Room: The department has an ultra modern seminar room with seating capacity of 70 equipped with round table conference setup with the latest Audio-Visual teaching aids including an LCD Projector, visualizer and 20 microphone sets.

Computer Lab: The computer lab exclusively for OR students has over 30 systems (Pentium III & IV) with a switch based Local Area Network (LAN) operating under windows 2000 and Linux servers. The students can work on various platforms such as DOS, Linux, Windows 95, 98 and 2000 servers provided. The systems are supported by high speed Laser printers, scanners and CD writers. The lab is equipped with a variety of OR and statistical softwares such as SPSS 11.5, Mat Lab, Oracle 9i, Mini Tab, Maple, QSB, MS Project, Hyper Lingo, MS Office, Visual Studio-6.0 and Turbo C++. Lab also has Internet connectivity through campus wide fiber optic network.

Lecture Rooms: The lecture rooms have seating capacity of 90 students and are equipped with the modern teaching aids like an LCD projector, visualizer, audio system. The internet facility is also available in all the lecture rooms to augment the teaching.

Infrastructure at University of Delhi South Campus

Computer Lab: The computer lab exclusively for OR students has over 20 systems (Pentium IV) with a switch based Local Area Network (LAN) operating under windows 2000 and Linux servers. The lab is equipped with a variety of OR and statistical softwares such as SPSS 15.0, Hyper Lingo and Minitab. Lab also has Internet connectivity through campus wide fiber optic network.

XIII. Departmental OR Society

The Department has an active OR Society, a student elected body that regularly organizes various educational and cultural events. The society provides a platform for the students to interact with academicians and professionals from the industry. Workshops and seminars that are organized witness an active and enthusiastic participation of the students.
